TENNIS SEASON CLOSSES; FLU STOPS EXHIBITION

Washington's tennis chapter for 1918 is about closed. On account of the ban on public meetings, outdoors and indoors, the Woman's Tennis Association has called off the exhibition matches for tomorrow which would have brought Miss Mollie Bjurstedt and Miss Marion Zinderstein here.

An attempt will be made to have the champion of all women players come down next week to play at Columbia. Miss A. M. Doyle, of the Woman's Tennis Association here, made arrangements to have Miss Bjurstedt and Miss Zinderstein play at Columbia tomorrow and Sunday.

The engagement was first slated for October 5. It was changed to October 12, but the Spanish influenza epidemic has put a stop to the matches. A dance and dinner had been planned at Columbia in connection with the exhibition.

Washington will also be denied the privilege of seeing Ichihara Kumagata and S. Kashi, the Japanese cracks, who were expected here shortly. In response to a telegram sent to them in New York they replied it would be impossible to get here.

The final match in the Departmental Tennis League yesterday wound up the season. Commerce emerged winner with Interior Department second. Commerce lost but six matches out of thirty-five, while Interior lost nine matches out of thirty-five. The matches started late in the summer and were played on Tuesdays and Thursdays of every week. Something like 200 players participated in the matches.

Central High School had gotten a doubles tournament under way when the schools were closed on account of the "flu." The Central lads had planned to play the doubles tournament this fall and the singles tourney in the spring. Both tournaments will be played in the spring according to present plans.

The annual meeting of the Departmental Tennis League will take place in February, as will the meeting of the Washington Tennis Association.

JIM GAFFNEY NOW HAS BOSTON CLUB

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—The local syndicate which took over the Braves from James E. Gaffney, of New York, during the winter of 1914-15, is no longer in charge, it was learned here today. Indeed, it gave up its holdings during the recent world's series, the club reverting to Gaffney, who held a heavy mortgage.

President Percy Haughton resigned some weeks ago to go into the army as a major in the chemical warfare section. Business Manager Walter R. Hapgood is in charge of affairs in the absence of Gaffney, who is a New York contractor.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP

Rutgers wants a game with Penn. but the Quakers seem backward about meeting the Jersey veterans.

Idleness, caused by the influenza epidemic, is reported to have taken all the "pep" out of Glenn Warner's Pittsburgh squad.

Spanish influenza has put a decided crimp in school and independent football in the District, but it is expected to come to life with great suddenness in a week or so.

Boston is to have Saturday and Sunday football games between teams composed of exalted men on duty around the Hub. These games will be played at Braves Field and should attract big crowds.

Bob Polwell, Penn's coach, is at his home in Mullica Hill, N. J., fast recovering from an attack of Spanish "flu." He is expected to resume his duties on Franklin Field inside of a week.

Columbia has seventy-five candidates trying for places on the variety football eleven, but so far as known no schedule has been arranged for the Blue and White. Some hustling is needed at Columbia.

MISKE GOES HOME

Billy Miske, the big heavyweight, has gone to his home at St. Paul, and it looks as if he will not come east again to fight until after the war. Billy has not been making much money out of the boxing game for some time, his last sum being $1,000 for boxing Harry Greb, in Pittsburgh, when he was to have received a guarantee of $2,500. That is probably the reason why Miske passed up his bout with Clay Turner in "Philly" on October 9.

MIDDIES WILL REST

The Middles will rest tomorrow, instead of playing the naval base eleven from Norfolk, Va. The medical officers at Annapolis have declared the squad in no condition to play football.

The Navy hopes to book a contest with the Philadelphia Marines on October 13, and the Newport Naval Reserve on October 25.

VAUGHN IS WORKING

KENOSHA, Wis., Oct. 11.—"Tiny" Jim Vaughn, the crack southpaw hurler of the Chicago Cubs, is working at a motor-car factory here and playing with the ball team on Saturdays and Sundays.

"My old soup bone will be ready for the reopening of major league baseball," says Vaughn. "A year's rest ought to do it good, instead of injuring it."

SIGNS OF LIFE

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 11.—Contrary to reports Washington and Lee University will be represented by a football team this fall. The generals have Capt. Joe Silverstein, Sam Raines and Lester Fox back from last year.

Lieutenant Fitzpatrick will coach the eleven, and has started work with a large squad. Pierotti and Larkin will not be back, but the material stacks up with that of former years.

GOLF POPULAR HERE.

Golf courses here were well patronized yesterday. Columbia, Chevy Chase and Kirkcaldie had full courses during the afternoon. The sudden desire for golf is attributed to the fact that a trip around the course furnishes fresh air plenty. The courses present a most attractive appearance in their fall attire.

INGLESIDES MAKE NEW PIN RECORDS

The Inglesides are possessors of a new season's record today. Rolling against the Shamrocks in the National Capital Duckpin League the Inglesides totaled 53, 52, and 53.

The set of 127 better by three pins the mark set early in the week by the Grand Central five. Elker, Meany, Farrow, Krieger, and Brandt were members of the winning team. Three games were annexed from Shamrock.

Elker's 127 was high game. The Inglesides rolled consistently throughout the match, though none of the scores were much above the average.

Stansbury had a walkaway in the Masonic League, taking three games from the Ostris bowlers. Stanford's 126 earned high honors. None of the Masonic League rollers were in form, as but one game went over the 500 mark.

FORM GRIDIRON LEAGUE.

A football league has been organized with teams from Camp Grant, Custer, Dodge and Zachary Taylor represented. All proceeds will be used in building gymnasiums and providing camp equipment.

WILL HAVE A TEAM.

After much delay, the authorities at New York University announce that they will have a football team for games in November.
